- Safe administration of medicines
- The supply, storage and disposal of medicines

Course Duration: 3 Hours

Assessment Method: Summative assessment, practical assessment

As we get older, our use of medication often increases. Medicines are taken to ease, control or cure ailments. They are effective and safe if used correctly.

This short course is for health and social care professionals, managers and workers, and all people who work with older people, especially in community and nursing settings.

As a participant of this course, you focus on drops commonly used by older people, their nature and role, and the possible adverse effects they may have for people.

Completing this course, you gain a certificate of attendance for continuing professional development purposes.
